

Successful Units

Overview

- Characteristics of a successful unit
- Resources necessary for unit success
- Four questions that define a successful unit
- Measuring unit success

Successful Units

How do you know if your unit is successful?

Successful Units

Characteristics of a successful unit

- Supports all three facets of CAP's mission
- Active participation from unit members
- Effective retention program
- Well-developed staff
- Effective, positive leadership
- Capability to embrace meaningful change
- Ability to effectively use the tools available

Successful Units

Resources necessary for unit success

- People: members, families, & staff
- Assets: contacts, equipment, etc.
- Partners
  - Higher headquarters
  - USAF state director
  - Other CAP squadrons
  - State and local agencies
  - Schools

Successful Units

Four questions:

- What does the unit accomplish?
- How does the unit interact with its partners?
- What do members do?
- How do members interact?

Successful Units

Measure success against:

- past performance.
- the wing's similar units.
- wing goals and objectives.
- squadron goals and objectives.
- the four questions.

Successful Units

Summary

- Characteristics of a successful unit
- Resources necessary for unit success
- Four questions that define a successful Unit
- Measuring unit success

Successful Units

Questions & Answers